

Contents

Preface	vii
Acknowledgments	ix
Part I: Surviving in a Changing World	1
1 Rapid Change in a Global World	3
1.1 Change from China	3
1.2 Change from India	11
1.3 Change in the United States and Europe	15
2 Exploiting the 10× Change	19
2.1 The 10× change	19
2.2 Three ways to create a new business	27
2.3 Three eras of change and management	31
2.4 The rest of this book	39
Part II: Leadership for Transformation	43
3 Identify Need	47
3.1 Humanitas and principle 1	47
3.2 ZIN and principle 2	59
3.3 Reflection	71
4 Initiate Transformation	73
4.1 FAVI and principle 3	73
4.2 SOL and principle 4	83
4.3 Principle 5	97
4.4 Reflection	100
5 Build New Business	103
5.1 Maeda Corporation and principle 6	103
5.2 NIMS and principles 7 and 8	110
5.3 Summary model	118
5.4 Tables relating the eight principles to six case studies . .	120

Part III: Skills and Capabilities	129
6 Perceiving Change through Image Data	131
6.1 Intuitive observation	131
6.2 Go to the source	136
6.3 Discovering through visual images	139
6.4 Digging beneath the surface of an image	147
7 Creating Future Concepts through Language Data	167
7.1 Discovery as a problem-solving process	167
7.2 Image data versus language data	169
7.3 Language data and semantics	171
7.4 Five-Step Discovery Process	176
Part IV: Patterns of Breakthrough Management	189
8 Stages and Cycles of Breakthrough	191
8.1 Teradyne Aurora and three stages of breakthrough	192
8.2 Cycles of breakthrough and Seiko	198
8.3 Components of the breakthrough cycle	202
8.4 Cycles and stages of NIMS and Maeda	209
9 Obstacles and Infrastructure	211
9.1 The innovator's dilemma	211
9.2 Infrastructure	214
9.3 Market versus organizational breakthrough	221
9.4 New start-up, replacement, or add-on	223
10 Communities and Societal Values	233
10.1 Community building	233
10.2 Common elements of business	246
Notes	251
Bibliography	259
About the Authors	265